French Papers Lash Assembly In Gov't Crisis

Anger Mounts as Third Candidate for Premier Rejected

PARIS (UP)—The National Assembly rejected Christian Pineau today as premier and was immediately denounced in the French press for pushing France "toward catastrophe."

A rising crescendo of editorial criticism called the members of the assembly "demolishers" and "absurd" and demanded reforms to end the condition that has left France without a government for 15 days.

There even was doubt France could send an official representative to the SEATO conference in Bangkok which opens Wednesday and the Foreign Office caretakers met today to decide what to do.

French anger mounted and communicated itself to President Rene Coty whose third choice for premier since the downfall of Pierre Mendes-France was rejected by a humiliating, 312 to 268 vote.

Although the vote against Socialist Pineau came well after midnight Coty began calling the balky party leaders on the red carpet at Elysee Palace and told them to pick the next candidate themselves.

Consider Fourth Designate

The leaders agreed to meet this morning and report back to Coty on the main lines of any program on which they could agree.

Coty hoped to name his fourth premier-designate by early evening.

There was no immediate prediction who that candidate might be but there was speculation it might be a member of Mendes-France's radical Socialist or another Independent, Edgar Faure, who served only a few days as foreign minister in Mendes-France's cabinet, was mentioned as a possibility.

Paris newspapers were quick to lash the National Assembly for its failure to do anything about the government crisis that has seen France stand on the sidelines during half a month of major world developments.

The right-wing newspaper L'Aurore called the deputies "demolishers" and suggested that they ask their constituents what they think of them now. It said the deputies had "overthrown" Mendes-France, "torpedoed" Antoine Pinay, "eliminated with interest" Pierre Pflimlin and suggested they were ready to "assassinate" anyone who follows Pineau.

Pineau lost when the right-wing parties in the assembly teamed up against him. The split deepened the crisis and sent the Socialists back into the political wilderness outside the government where they have stood apart since the 1951 elections.

Linda Rude, Roger Wiley Selected at HTHS for District Piano Contest

Linda Rude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Rude, and Roger Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wiley, were selected the winners of a preliminary piano contest held at the Harrisburg Township high school Thursday, Feb. 17.

Linda and Roger will now enter the district contest to be held March 12 at Mt. Vernon. Both students are freshmen at HTHS.

Diana Mathis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mathis, was selected alternate in the contest and will attend the district contest if one of the winners is unable to attend.

In the contest held Thursday, Linda played a Preamble of Bach; Roger — a Sonata in D by Haydn; and Diane — Etude in D by Liszt. Eight other HTHS students were entered in the contest, which was judged by John Schork, and who are as follows: Jane Capel, Doris Williams, Janet Tanner, Paula Reynolds, Janet Jahn, Peggy Strader, Sally Smith, and Judith Ann Wiley.

It is interesting to note that of the eleven students entered in the contest, eight of them were freshmen.

Gail Barger Rites Today; Wible Funeral Sunday

The funeral of Gail Barger, Carrier Mills, one of the four victims of a motor vehicle crash which occurred Thursday afternoon on Route 45 south of Carrier Mills, was to be held this afternoon.

The funeral was to be at 2 p. m. at the First Baptist church of Carrier Mills, conducted by the Rev. Ernest Ammon, pastor of the church. The body was to lie in state at the church from 1 to 2 p. m., being taken there from the Thornton funeral home of Carrier Mills. Burial was to be in Salem cemetery.

Rites for Harold Wible, Carrier Mills, another victim, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at the First Baptist church instead of at the Thornton funeral home, as was the plan at first. Following the service the body will be taken to Livonia, Ind., for burial. Rev. Ammon also will conduct the funeral service for him.

The Gibbons funeral home, which yesterday took the body of Ermer Gray to Dyersburg, Tenn., for funeral and burial, today took the body of Urah Cobbs, fourth victim, to Racine, Wisconsin.

The Gibbons ambulance yesterday moved Cobbs' wife, Willa, only survivor of the crash, from the Harrisburg hospital to Welborn Memorial hospital.

Lamon "Cotton" Nevius is in serious condition in Lightner hospital, taken there after a fall from a pole earlier in the week.

Sheriff William T. Barrett said that he was told Nevius, a resident of Harco, suffered a broken back and skull fracture.

Barrett said there was evidence that Nevius was cutting wire from a power line of the Southeastern Illinois Electric co-operative with a hacksaw when he fell. The accident happened a fourth mile south of Harco.

His wife found him lying on the ground, called to persons to help her, and he was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Barrett has in his possession the hacksaw. There was evidence on the pole, too, he said, that the pole had been climbed recently.

Trade Measure Passes House; See Senate Fight

By United Press

The administration hoped today the Senate will give the President's foreign aid program a clearer-cut victory than the narrow margin by which the House approved it.

The bill cleared the House Friday after a major attempt to wipe it down was defeated by a slim seven-vote margin, 206-199.

The victory came only after an 11th hour appeal from the President was read to the House and after a strong plea by GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.).

The administration could thank strong Democratic support for victory over opposition led by members of the President's own party.

Under the bill as approved, the President is empowered for the next three years to either reject or accept the Tariff Commission's recommendations. He has only to tell Congress why he takes either action.

The bill will meet its first Senate test when the Finance Committee acts on it after hearings, which will begin in 10 days or two weeks.

Indications were it faces another rough legislative battle, particularly from Republicans representing industrial states.

Other congressional news:

Schools: Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) said the President's program for helping states build more schools is a "wreck" now that school leaders in 37 states have expressed partial or total opposition to it.

Hill, chairman of the committee considering the administration bill, is pushing a plan of his own. It would emphasize outright federal grants rather than loans as the administration proposes.

Dixon-Yates: Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes denied Sen. Hill's charge that the Budget Bureau has concealed "essential facts" about the Dixon-Yates contract. Hill had said Adolph W. Wenzell, Boston investment banker advised the bureau on the contract while his bank was arranging to finance construction of the Dixon-Yates plant. Hughes conceded that Wenzell, who served without pay, sat in on early contract discussions for 34 days between May, 1953, and March, 1954. But he said no effort was made to conceal this fact.

L. B. Craig, 86, Lifelong Resident Of Stonefort Dies

Louis B. Craig, 86, lifelong resident of Stonefort, died yesterday at 9 p. m. He was a carpenter by trade.

Mr. Craig was the son of George and Eliza Craig and was one of ten children of which only one survives, John Craig of Stonefort. All of the children grew up in Stonefort.

Besides his brother, John, he leaves one son, Paul of Stonefort, and four grandchildren: Freddie and Valgene of Stonefort, Mrs. Rosine Drees, Lawndale, Calif., and Mrs. Libby Ann Choate, Denver, Colo. His wife, Mary, a daughter, Bessie, and a son, Miles, preceded him in death.

Mr. Craig was an uncle of Mrs. George Barnes and L. M. Hancock of Harrisburg.

The body will lie in state at the Thornton funeral home in Stonefort until time for the funeral which will be Monday at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church. Burial will be in the Joyner cemetery at Stonefort.

AEC Postpones Firing Giant Nuclear Blast After Explosion of 'Baby' Bomb

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission postponed firing of a giant nuclear explosion for the fifth time this morning because of unacceptable weather conditions.

The AEC's Joint Test Information Office announced after an early morning weather briefing it would review conditions later today for signs of improvement, but "without much hope."

An AEC spokesman said the postponement came after continued northerly winds were forecast which would produce a fall-out pattern necessitating evacuation of the test site control point Camp Mercury and Camp Desert Rock just south of the proving grounds.

The 1955 test series got under way Friday with the explosion of a "baby" bomb that could have been a tactical weapon aimed at an "enemy" troop concentration. It was a substitute for the tower shot which had been postponed four times previously because of weather.

The tower device, scheduled for the fifth time for detonation before dawn today, was believed to contain one of the biggest explosive forces ever put together in five years of testing in Nevada.

Housed in a "cab" the size of a railroad shack atop the tower, it was officially estimated to be as powerful as 50,000 tons of TNT, perhaps better than 65,000 tons, the biggest one ever exploded (1953) at the Nevada proving grounds.

Seen 1,000 Miles

Under favorable atmospheric conditions, the flash of a "big one" in the past has been seen for 1,000 miles, as far away as Montana. Five detonations of some medium-sized devices have been sighted in at least three states—Nevada, Utah and California.

A weather jinx already has caused four postponements of the tower shot. It originally was scheduled for last Tuesday, but finally

Eden Hopes for New Approach at Bangkok Parley

LONDON (UP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden leaves today for the Bangkok conference where he may be able to fashion a new Anglo-American approach toward a Formosa cease-fire.

His formal mission will be to join the other member nations of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) in shaping the structure of their Asian defense organization to halt Red aggression.

But there will be direct talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the possibility of realigning Anglo-American policy on Formosa which was severely strained by Dulles' recent speech.

Dulles' remarks on the defense of the Nationalist-held offshore islands of Matsu and Quemoy clashed head-on with British feelings that their surrender to Peiping might pave the way for a cease-fire.

Previous efforts to cool the crisis appeared stalemated as Eden departed—the United Nations invitation to the Chinese Reds, British-Indian approaches to Moscow and Peiping, and Russia's call for a 10-power conference that would ignore Nationalist China.

Dulles left Washington Friday afternoon for Bangkok with the prediction the three-day conference which opens Wednesday would make a "real contribution toward the peace and security of the future."

The members of SEATO are the United States, The Philippines, Pakistan, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, Britain and France.

In the main SEATO conference the delegates will move to tighten the alignment of the free nations against further Communist advances in Southeast Asia.

Russia Asks Destruction of Nuclear Weapons

Believe Kremlin Concerned with West Lead in H-Race

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The United States and Britain received with skepticism today Russia's latest proposal for destruction of nuclear weapons, but nonetheless decided to send in a top team of negotiators to meet the Reds at next week's disarmament conference.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the United States' chief delegate to the United Nations, and Anthony Nutting for Britain will have a chance to review the Russian proposal with Russia's Andrei Gromyko when they meet in London next Friday.

There was no real hope that the London meeting could come up with a disarmament formula.

But Russia's present talkative mood lent hope for at least limited headway.

In London and Washington it was speculated that the newest Russian proposal was based on a Kremlin fear that the West was getting too big a lead in the H-bomb race.

United Nations observers said the proposal would make any agreement on outlawing atomic and hydrogen bombs even more difficult.

The Russian proposal that all nations destroy their stockpiles of nuclear weapons came only a few hours after the United States detonated an atomic device in the Nevada desert to open the 1955 series of nuclear tests. It followed by less than two days the announcement in London that Britain is building the hydrogen bomb as the main deterrent to war.

Officials in Washington said the Soviet recommendation for "an appropriate international control for observation" of the disarmament program was too generalized. They said Moscow should spell out its ideas in concrete terms.

Washington said the Soviet proposal is unacceptable unless Russia is willing to accept a foolproof international inspection system to insure atomic disarmament. It was noted that Russia had consistently refused to accept any such inspection system that would allow checks on her pledges to live up to prohibition of atomic weapons.

Washington officials also were skeptical over the proposal that all nations should freeze the strength of their armed forces on Jan. 1, 1955 levels. This, they said, would rule out rearmament of West Germany and Japan and would give the Communist bloc a vast military manpower superiority over the Western powers.

The American stockpile of atomic weapons, they noted, has been the main Western counter-balance against the mass armies of Russia and its Communist satellites.

In London, observers said the Soviet proposal was evidence of the Kremlin's growing concern over the West gaining a 2 to 1 advantage in the H-bomb race. Britain announced Thursday that it too is producing an H-bomb.

Who is Eligible for Social Security?

Nearly six million farm operators and workers are covered by Social Security in 1955. No one doubts that this socio-political gamble will have a considerable impact on agriculture. There are at least 900,000 farmers who could retire in 1957. By this date they can qualify for full benefits under Social Security.

Beginning on January 1 of this year, any farm operator who makes a profit of $400 or more for the year is subject to Social Security.
Farm employees are covered if they receive at least $100 cash pay for the year from one farm operator. The question of whether a person is a farm employee is not too difficult. If the service he performs is subject to control and supervision, if his tools and equipment are furnished and his farm expenses are paid, if he has no title to crops and no loss risk, and if he is subject to discharge, the relation is one of employment. The fact that his salary may be payable as a percentage of the crop does not change this relation; it is still employment. A manager-operator under general supervision of the landowner would also be an employee, since these same tests would apply.

A more difficult question is whether income is self-employment or investment income. That is, when is a landowner receiving earned income from self-employment and when is he receiving retirement income? As an operator, his income is subject to Social Security tax.
As a landowner, receiving rent from the use of the land, his income is not subject to Social Security tax.

Until the Internal Revenue Service issues regulations on this subject, the following comments may help guide farmers in their leasing arrangements.

Illinois crop-share cash lease. The landlord makes a contribution of land and pays a share of the production costs. The tenant furnishes labor, equipment and all or most of the management. The rent paid as cash and crop share is rent to the landlord and is expected to be considered retirement income.

However, it may be possible to change the provisions of this lease to label it a joint venture or partnership, provided the landowner participates in management, shares losses as well as profits, pays his share of the farm expenses, owns part of the equipment, and retains a right to possession along with the operator. This is not a normal situation and probably should be accomplished by using a partnership contract rather than by changing a crop-share cash lease.

One of the quickest ways to get yourself into trouble is to dart abruptly out of a parking space into a traffic lane without taking the time or trouble to find out first whether there is any moving traffic in that lane.

The law says you shall not move out of a parking space "until such movement can be made with reasonable safety." (Section 64, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.) Unless you have first made sure you can drive out of a parking space with "reasonable safety," you may find yourself involved in, or the cause of, a serious crash.

A car driving along the street might easily crash into you, or in an effort to avoid doing that, might crash into some other car. To be safe, make sure there is no traffic approaching from the rear by looking behind you. If there is, wait for it to pass. When the way seems clear, give the left-hand turn signal to warn any traffic which you might not have seen or which might be farther down the street. Then drive into the traffic lane.

SIDE GLANCES

"Don't feel too bad—my husband sells insurance, and I can't even get him in to see the boss!"

Winter Makes Hard Attack on Legume Stands

Winter makes a four-pronged attack on legumes. And it takes good varieties and good management to withstand the assault.

J. W. Gerdemann, University of Illinois plant pathologist, says that frost, heaving, low temperatures and ice sheets are the villains in the picture.

Frost damage is usually slight and by far the least important.

Extremely cold weather causes more severe damage. It may kill legumes outright, Gerdemann says.
Or it may weaken the plant to the point where disease can set in.

The plant pathologist recommends managing legume stands carefully in addition to growing adapted varieties to reduce low-temperature injury. Cutting too often, grazing too heavily or taking a hay crop of too late in the fall weakens the plants and lowers resistance of the stand to cold weather.

Actually you won't damage the stand so much if you take off a hay crop after growth has stopped as if you cut between September 1 and October 15.

Damage from heaving is most severe on poorly drained land. Freezing and thawing actually lifts the plants out of the ground. Legumes with unbranched root roots, such as alfalfa, are most likely to heave.

Ice sheets cause the most serious injury. By shutting off the air supply, they can completely kill a legume stand. Some research has shown that alfalfa varieties are resistant to ice sheet hazards in this order: Rhizoma, Ladak, Grimm, Ranger, Buffalo, Kansas Common, Oklahoma Common and New Mexico Common.

Alfalfa or sweet clover will stand an ice sheet better than red clover.

Reduce Your Chick Losses

Good poultry raisers like to raise nine out of ten chicks started.
Some do better but this is considered a good average.

Some, however, fail to raise 90 percent of their chicks. This can be due to a number of reasons, many of which can be corrected.

Low-quality chicks, poor management, inadequate nutrition, lack of sanitation—these are some of the reasons why poultrymen fall short of the mark. Chick quality can be controlled by buying chicks from a reputable hatchery and paying for good quality. Nutrition should not be a problem if good feed is supplied in proper amounts.

Critical Points
This leaves management and sanitation as the critical points of success or failure. Don't fail to give chicks the attention they need.
They should be inspected regularly for feed and water supply, for ventilation and for cleanliness.

If chicks aren't feeding and drinking, there's a reason. Look for it and correct it. If they huddle, the heat and ventilation should be checked. If the air is heavy and strong, the ventilation is not adequate.

Be sure to keep the brooder house clean. Do not allow damp areas around waterers. Stir the litter regularly and add fresh, clean litter occasionally.

Need Room
Sanitation and ventilation can be made easier by brooding the right number of chicks. Too many chicks should not be put in a brooder house. Overcrowding results in disease, cannibalism and other troubles. The right number of chicks is two per square foot of floor space. In other words, a 10 by 12 house will accommodate about 250 chicks.

Don't give chicks good housing, good feeding, good all-around care—these are the "musts" for success in chick-raising. When these essentials are followed, along with modern specific prevention of disease, chick losses can be reduced substantially.

Profitable poultry means healthy poultry. By following certain practices, a flockowner can help minimize losses to disease and help maximize profits.

Animals Too May Have Dental Troubles

If you have an animal that doesn't seem to be doing very well this winter, it may have dental troubles, says Dr. H. J. Hardenbrook of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois.

Dental troubles in animals are not unusual, and they may seriously affect an animal's growth or production. Dr. Hardenbrook points out that if an animal can't chew or shred its food properly the effect will be the same as if it isn't getting enough to eat.

In young animals the trouble may come from improper shedding of baby teeth. Older animals may injure a tooth by biting on a hard object, or they may have some irregularity in the shape of the jaw or irregularly worn teeth.

Dental troubles in an animal may be indicated by frequent drooling, slow and deliberate chewing or sudden drawing back of the animal from cold water.

A veterinarian can quickly check your animals for dental troubles.
Dr. Hardenbrook says. Correction of dental troubles can mean better eating, better digestion and better health for the animals.

If your clothes come out brown when you use a soap and a bleach together, your water has manganese in it. You can get out the brown stains with a detergent.

Area Fruit Growers Concerned With Competition, Buying Habits

(Editor's Note: The following is a supplementary release to a series on a study, "Commercial Orchard Economy in Southern Illinois," by Dalias price, Southern Illinois University associate professor of geography. It contains clarifying details from the study not included in previous articles.)

CARBONDALE, Ill.—The greatest concern of the southern Illinois orcharding industry in recent years has been the stiffening competition from other producing areas and from other types of fruit, the mounting production costs, and the changing buying habits of consumers who nationally have tended toward reducing purchases of fresh apples and peaches.

So reports Dalias Price, Southern Illinois University associate professor of geography in his study, "Commercial Orchard Economy in Southern Illinois."

Technological advances have been underway in area orchards for more than a half century. Production methods have been characterized by highly developed mechanization and the use of power equipment for pruning, spraying, cultivating, harvesting, and packing orchard crops. The better orchardists realize that they must know about soils, spray programs, pruning methods, fertilizers, variety characteristics, and much other technical information.

Small Growers Face Problems

Only full time growers with comparatively large enterprises today can keep pace with such developments and meet greater competition by improving their products he says. Part-time and general farmers cannot hope to compete.
However, smaller orchard operations have persisted in the fruit production areas for various reasons. These face serious problems in making heavy investments in equipment and have a higher per unit production cost than do the larger orchardists. The smaller growers could benefit most from greater marketing knowledge and efforts in some phases of production and in packing and marketing.

Although fruit production in sothern Illinois still continues to operate largely on an individual or small unit basis, there has been a growing realization among progressive orchardists that they need greater marketing knowledge and more uniform quality standards, and that various cooperative efforts are needed to achieve these goals.

Promotion Program

Such growers have been the backbone of the 100-year-old Illinois Horticultural society which has been an organization through which members may keep up to date on technical advances in fruit production and through which frequent attempts at improving the packaging, marketing, and distributing of Illinois fruit have been suggested and started.

Price points out that in recent years the Illinois Fruit Council, which works closely with the Society, has been organized and is carrying on a program of sales and promotion and public information through the support of a number of growers and representatives of the fruit industry. He says its work shows real promise and needs acceleration but has been handicapped by inadequate financial resources.

The Illinois Fruit Growers Exchange, Carbondale, is a cooperative affiliate of the Illinois Agriculture Association which serves member orchardists as a marketing medium, supplies cold storage facilities, and maintains a supply center for orchard supplies. To date it has not started providing members with cooperative grading and packing facilities. More growers could be served by the cooperative, Price says.

Imports Hurt Growers

Illinois markets absorb much of the state's fruit crops with Chicago alone furnishing an excellent market. The state's eight million people would be far more than enough to absorb all the fruit produced in the state if other regions did not ship in fruit. As a result of these imports southern Illinois growers often encounter difficulties in selling their apples and peaches within the home state, Price says. Other light-producing states in the Midwest take good amounts of Illinois fruits.

Recent advances in pre-cooling particularly stericooling, make possible extending the marketing distances greatly for peaches which are quite perishable and of great distribution concern to area orchardists. So far, Price finds growers have continued to rely on nearer markets rather than add to production expenses the 15 cents per bushel cost involved in stericooling. The new practice would be most feasible in some type of cooperative enterprise because most individual orchardists are not large enough operators to install and use a stericooler economically.

Benson Advised Dust Bowl Land 'Ready to Blow'

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has been advised that more than 26 million acres of farm land in the old Dust Bowl area are "in condition to blow."

This is the case, Benson has been informed, despite recent rains in the region.

The condition of the Dust Bowl country was detailed in special Soil Conservation Service reports which Benson will make public at a news conference Monday.

The reports show that drought conditions in the Great Plains were no better on Feb. 10 than on Jan.
10 when they were described as worse than any since the parched 1930s.

According to the Soil Conservation Service reports heavy winds could pick up black layers of dust from more than 26 million acres still lacking protective cover. This dust could settle on other farm lands and kill or damage newly planted crops, the reports said.

If the critical areas get more rain, or if spring winds turn out to be unusually light, the danger of blowing would be greatly reduced, the reports show.

A game similar to mumble-peg is played with a table fork in some parts of Ireland.

Boiling clothes is out of date, but still a good idea for clothing used by persons with contagious or infectious diseases. Wash clothes as usual, wring out as much as possible. Place them in detergent solution and boil 10 minutes and rinse thoroughly.

XXXXVI
Crotch shrugged, returning to his pilothouse. He rang Melott to turn his paddle up for the contact with Jamison's boat. He was sure in his mind Jamison was lying, that his hull damage had already been repaired, and the Claremore could be withdrawn from the gravel bar on her own power.

He said to Goss tightly, "Get below and see that our Cocopahs are ready. If you find Queenie, better tell her to come topside. You can expect trouble as soon as you tie fast to the Claremore."

Goss reached after the rifle that was slung beside the wheel, and plunged down the ladder toward the lower decks. He knew as well as Crotch the outright piracy of which Jamison had many times been guilty.

Below, on his own deck, he noted his crew arming themselves with timber from the wood bunks—stout pieces from the San Diego's hog-framing, railing lengths and hardwood handrails his axmen had cut last night from the beached Navigation packet.

He saw with a flurry of relief that Queenie was leaving her quarters, and then he spied Sugar Logan coming forward to meet her, Logan would be bringing her to the safer cabin deck.

The safety valve began shrieking. He had brought the General Heath within a few feet of Jamison's ship, and now Goss heaved a line which was caught on the opposite boat and made fast. Jamison's men were lifting a gangplank over the rail. It had hardly been secured in place before they came charging across.

They flourished lengths of firewood in their brawny hands, their throats flinging forth battle cries. Jamison's crew had gained nearly the engine pit when Goss struck them anew with a four-foot section of hogging frame. He was going into them with his cleaving timber, leaving a circle of fallen crewmen around him. Into this rushed a few of the Heath's remaining deck hands. China Boy came in for support by striking with the blunt edge of a meat cleaver. Melott was rushing from his engine pit, shoulder to shoulder with two bare-chested Cocopahs. These three carried pokers which had been heated to cherry heat in their fire boxes.

But all this had become a background. Crotch had suddenly picked out Jamison crossing his deck. Jamison rushed upon him as he reached the lower deck. Jamison carried a club.

He got an arm up fast, caught Jamison's club in its downswing. The blow made him wince in agony but the sudden stoppage of the piece wrenched the weapon from Jamison's grasp. Now Crotch stepped in with leather-hard fists cracking. He struck Jamison on the jaw, caught the snap of the other man's teeth under the impact—the sensation carrying all the way through his arm.

Jamison was groaning, blood running steadily from one corner of his mouth and staining his coat front and his shirt. Crotch's knuckles were bare, his own sweat and blood smarting his eyes. Jamison was hitting back, yet Crotch barely felt the reeling effect of his punches.

Now Jamison lifted a knee to his groin. His air left him in a long groan as his lungs emptied. But he had a second chance at Jamison's jaw before the full weight of the Heath's remaining deck hands. China Boy came in for support by striking with the blunt edge of a meat cleaver. Melott was rushing from his engine pit, shoulder to shoulder with two bare-chested Cocopahs. These three carried pokers which had been heated to cherry heat in their fire boxes.

But all this had become a background. Crotch had suddenly picked out Jamison crossing his deck. Jamison rushed upon him as he reached the lower deck. Jamison carried a club.

He got an arm up fast, caught Jamison's club in its downswing. The blow made him wince in agony but the sudden stoppage of the piece wrenched the weapon from Jamison's grasp. Now Crotch stepped in with leather-hard fists cracking. He struck Jamison on the jaw, caught the snap of the other man's teeth under the impact—the sensation carrying all the way through his arm.

Jamison was groaning, blood running steadily from one corner of his mouth and staining his coat front and his shirt. Crotch's knuckles were bare, his own sweat and blood smarting his eyes. Jamison was hitting back, yet Crotch barely felt the reeling effect of his punches.

Shawneetown Edges Pope Co., 40-38, for 26-0 Record; Ridgway, Cave-in-Rock Win

Pope County high's basketball quintet threw a tremendous scare into Shawneetown's unbeaten Indians last night before losing in the final five seconds, 40-38. The victory gave Shawneetown a perfect season on the hardwood with a 26-0 record.

Jack Nolen's two free tosses in the closing moments of the tussle broke a 38-38 deadlock and kept Shawneetown's long victory string intact. Nolen, the team's leading scorer, had been held to two points up to his tie-breaking foul shots.

The Indians took a 12-8 quarter lead and increased it to 24-17 at halftime. Gene Dick's Pirates refused to be counted out and clung to the invaders throughout the third.

Trailing only 35-30 as the final period opened, Pope Co. rallied, and midway in the period held a short-lived lead. The last four minutes saw both teams working feverishly for good shots before firing.

Shawneetown's unbeaten reserve team also had a narrow squeeze, winning 54-53. The victory was their 20th in a row.

Al Penman's Ridgway crew staved off a desperate Equality bid in the final quarter to win 44-42. Equality had beaten the Eagles in a previous meeting, 55-53.

Ridgway controlled the ball for 5-12 minutes in the first quarter before losing it. In the final two and a half minutes of the period the two teams scored 16 points with Equality winding up a 10-6 lead.

Ridgway outscored their hosts 14-8 in the second canto to assume a 20-18 halftime margin, and continued to outpoint them in the third. The score was 32-28 Ridgway, as the fourth opened.

Equality peeked away at the small Ridgway advantage until they knotted the score at 36-all with four minutes remaining. Carroll Downen then hit a fielder and two free tosses to give the Eagles a 40-36 lead. Four more quick points by Ridgway seemed to put the game beyond Equality's reach.

"Kay" Willis' Cardinals almost pulled a surprise then, for in the last minute and five seconds, the Equality cagers tallied six points while holding the visitors scoreless.

Cave-in-Rock broke a string of seven defeats by tripping Rosiclare, 68-39. The Riverman had little trouble. They led at every rest point, 16-4, 26-13 and 37-22.

Eldorado Wins 73-69 Thriller At McLeansboro

Eldorado travelled to McLeansboro Friday night and won a thriller, 73-69, from the Foxes.

The victory was the 14th of the season for Eldorado in 21 starts. Two games remain on the Eagles' schedule. Next Friday Metropolitan calls at the Eldorado gym and Saturday the Eagles play at Carrier Mills.

The decision gave Eldorado and McLeansboro an even break in the season series, each winning away from home. Back on Jan. 7 McLeansboro was the victor at Eldorado 57-55 in an overtime.

The game was close throughout, with McLeansboro leading at the end of the quarter, 17-13, and at halftime, 31-30. Eldorado held the advantage, 56-55, after three quarters, followed by action and added three more points to its lead in the final frame.

Eldorado, outscored from the field, 26 goals to 23, won the game at the free throw line by hitting 27 times. McLeansboro connected for 17 free tosses.

McLeansboro won the preliminary game 57-46.

Galatia Thumps Vienna, 63-54, To End Season

Galatia's Bearcats wound up the regular season last night riding the crest of a four-game victory string by thumping the Vienna Eagles 63-54. The triumph gave Galatia fifth place in the conference standings.

The Mirandamen, beaten by Vienna earlier in the season, 62-56, played the sharp-shooting Johnson county five to a standstill most of the way. Only in the third period did the invading Eagles display signs of duplicating their earlier feat, this coming when they assumed a one-point lead.

The Bearcats rallied after this Vienna threat and went on to victory. Glenn Clarda and Lawrence Imboden, Galatia's two seniors, poured in 26 and 20 points respectively.

The overall season record of the Bearcats stood at 10 victories and 15 defeats after last night's game.

Carrier Mills Holds Off Norris City Rally, 59-54

Carrier Mills, after getting away to a big first quarter lead of 22-12, had to battle gamely to stave off a last period rally by invading Norris City last night to claim a 59-54 decision. The game was played at Carrier Mills.

At the beginning of the game Carrier Mills showed flashes of power and more all-around balance than in a long time. Midway in the quarter, with the score knotted at 8-all, the Wildcats rolled for ten consecutive points and an 18-8 advantage.

Rollins was the top scorer, but the rebounding of Lail and ball hawking of Reid was keeping Norris City from setting up an offensive game. In this first frame Rollins hit for 16 of his game total of 30 points. Rollins set out the second frame, being replaced by Coffield just seconds after the period started.

Oliver Rollins' 30 points in Friday's game against Norris City gave him a total of 613 for the season with one game remaining on the schedule.

A check of the records indicates he is the first player in Carrier Mills' history to go over the 600 mark in a single season. He has played in 22 games and has averaged better than 27 points per contest.

The 613 total is thought to be the highest individual effort in southern Illinois this season.

Norris City whittled three points of its deficit during the second quarter and trailed 22-25 at half time intermission.

Carrier Mills, with Fitts hitting for six points and Rollins for eight, picked up those three markers in the third and had a ten point spread as the final canto began.

Norris City staged a desperate rally during the final eight minutes but the final score of 59-54 a five point difference, was the closest the score ever reached.

In the first game of the season, Nov. 12, Norris City won from Carrier Mills 54-44. With an even break in the season's two-game series, the two teams will meet in the second game of the Norris City regional tourney in what shapes up as one of the better games of the meet.

Norris City won last night's preliminary game, 50-39.

Although the only conference victory won on the hardwood court was over Benton here, the Bull Dogs today have a mark of two wins against nine losses in the South Seven standings.

Principal Raymond L. Foster of HTHS said last night he had received a letter from Herrin Principal Eugene C. Eckert declaring the Harrisburg-Herrin game at Herrin Dec. 3 was being forfeited to Harrisburg because the Tigers used an ineligible player. Herrin won the game 61-27.

Eckert's letter said the Illinois State High School association has ruled that Herrin must forfeit the game because a player, Ronald Hudson, who was ineligible, saw action during the game. The letter explained that Hudson, who had attended Herrin high for two and a half years, lived in the Carterville district instead of the district for Herrin students.

"We don't like to take ball games like this," Mr. Foster said, "but rules are rules."

"We most certainly did not protest the playing of this boy. In fact the first I knew of the case was when I received the letter from Mr. Eckert today. I don't know who protested his use."

Local Squad Will Play Tonight At Charleston

Bill Lawrence, one of the top scorers of the South Seven basketball conference, poured 36 points through the hoop for Herrin last night as the Tigers trounced the Bull Dogs at Davenport gym, 69 to 47.

On the other hand, David Anglin, another top loop scorer, was ill and did not play for Harrisburg. David, who was at the contest but was not suited up, had been ailing for a couple of days. His absence undoubtedly hurt the local cause.

Tonight the Bull Dogs play at Charleston, about 140 miles upstate near Mattoon. This is a return game for the one played last year, in which the locals won the game played at Harrisburg.

The varsity squad was to leave at 1 p. m. today in private automobiles and stay all night at Charleston, returning home in the morning. The locals will play only a varsity contest there.

Last night the Bull Dogs played a good first half and fell apart during the second. Herrin led, 14-10, at the quarter and outscored the opponents 15-10 in the second quarter. Herrin led, 28-20, at the half and outscored the opponents 15-10 in the third quarter. Herrin led, 43-20, at the three-quarter mark and outscored the opponents 15-10 in the fourth quarter. Herrin won, 69-47.

Shells and Souls

With encouragement from his parents and some fundamental scientific training this young man has learned a great deal about shells. He knows, for instance, that the ocean floor is covered with millions of living creatures which would be unable to survive without the protection of the shells in which they live.

With similar encouragement from his parents, and with some fundamental religious training, this young man will learn some far more useful truths about souls. He will learn, for instance, that God's highest creature—Man—lives in a moral environment just as hostile to his survival as that ocean floor, and that Man depends for his protection not on any outer armor, but on the inner being which God has taught him to call his soul.

And when our young man compares shells and souls he will discover that, just as God provides many of his lesser creatures with the means of building up and strengthening their shells, he provides Man with the Church, the Bible, and the Gift of Prayer to enable him to strengthen his soul.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and financial support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The Church Ordinances'

Acts 2:38-41; I Cor. 11:23-29
GOLDEN TEXT: "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28: 19, 20)

INTRODUCTION — In order to understand any church or religious denomination fully one must know what its ordinances are. Also, it is well to know the meaning of those ordinances to that particular group.

Most Protestant churches observe only two ordinances. They are the Lord's Supper and baptism. A few observe more than this. The Catholic church observes seven ordinances, or sacraments, including such things as marriage and ordination.

It is a tragedy that so many churches have either altogether or almost ceased to observe even the Lord's Supper and baptism. These ordinances were given for the benefit and strengthening of the followers of Christ.

I. BAPTISM (Acts 2:38-41)
The Day of Pentecost had come. The Holy Spirit was upon Simon Peter and the other disciples. He preached that wonderful sermon which resulted in the salvation of three thousand souls. What a great day that was.

Let us point out here that Peter not only told those people to repent, but he also told them to be baptized. Every believer in Christ is commanded to follow Him in baptism.

There is not room here to go into all of the aspects of baptism. Church groups have been divided for centuries on this point. Let us say here that some immerse, some sprinkle and some pour. All feel that they have scriptural reasons for their method. Let us notice, however that all agree that the believer should be baptized. Baptism is an outward expression.

Additional Church Notes

sion of what has happened on the inside of man. The old sinful man has died, has been buried, and a new creature has been raised to walk in a new life. This comes by repentance of sins and faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour. After salvation, the believer is then commanded to show all the world what has happened on the inside by an outward expression — baptism. Baptism shows the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

II. THE LORD'S SUPPER (I Cor. 11:23-29)
Our Lord established this ordinance at the close of the Feast of the Passover. He intended that this should be the end of the observance of the Passover Feast, because He was now to die in our stead. The Lord's Supper was to show forth the death of Christ. It shows his broken body and shed blood for the sins of man.

Here again church groups have been divided. The Roman Catholics believe in transubstantiation, which means that they believe that the bread and wine actually become the body and blood of Christ after the priest blesses it. Some Protestant groups (Lutherans in particular) believe in consubstantiation, which means that the body and blood are there, with or alongside, the bread and wine after it has been blessed. Other Protestant groups believe that the Lord's Supper is merely symbolic. In other words they believe that the bread and wine merely show a picture of the broken body and shed blood of Christ.

Remember, there is no cleansing power in the Lord's Supper. You must go to Calvary's Cross for that.

CONCLUSION — Jesus has left both baptism and the Lord's Supper for his followers to observe. They come in the order mentioned. No person should ever partake in the Lord's Supper until after he has been baptized. Every believer is commanded to follow the Lord in baptism. And every believer should observe the Lord's Supper every time it is offered in his own church. Jesus said: "As oft as ye do this, ye do it in remembrance of me." (I Cor. 11:25)
